Pestilence, gaunt and ghastly, now stalks among the bruised, torn and suffering survivors of the terrible flood of the Conemaugh. Privation, exposure and excitement has left them an easy prey to disease, and the few houses standing on the hill sides, which would have given shelter to the survivors, are teeming hospitals, where every inch of space is occupied by the couch or pallet of some sufferer. Pneumonia is fearfully prevalent, and physicians say that two or three warm days, such as we should expect at this season, would undoubtedly develop typhus, or some other malignant epidemic. The safety of the living seems to demand that the debris, which holds hundreds of putrefying corpses, should be burned at once. Money is flowing in freely, but more is needed, and will be for weeks to come. Are our people doing what they should towards alleviating the sufferings of these people? Reports from all our neighboring towns show that money, food and clothing is being liberally contributed. Shall it be said that in such an hour the good people of Paw Paw sat supinely down and thought only of getting money? We sincerely trust that before this shall be printed, organization will have been taken looking to the aid of these sufferers.
